

S COTTISH C ATHOLIC H ISTORICAL A SSOCIATION

The Scottish Catholic Historical Association is the principal body for the advancement of education in and study of the part played by the Catholic Church and the Catholic Community in the life of the Scottish nation.

Founded in 1950 by a group of laity, academics and clerics, the Association now has over 200 members around the world, all interested in the history of the Catholic Church in Scotland. It is engaged in research of ecclesiastical, cultural, liturgical, literary and political history, ranging from Celtic times to the present day.

Join the Association today to support and promote the study of Scottish Catholic history

Registered as a charity in Scotland, number SC005207

Benefits of membership

- The opportunity to meet fellow members, researchers and scholars interested in Scottish Catholic history
- Two issues of The Innes Review (The Journal of Scottish Catholic History) annually - published continuously by the Scottish Catholic Historical Association since 1950, it contains articles and book reviews on a wide field of ecclesiastical, cultural, liturgical, architectural, literary and political history from earliest times to the present day. It is named after Thomas Innes (1662-1744), a missionary priest, historian, and archivist of the Scots College in Paris whose impartial scholarship stood out amongst the denominational prejudices of the time
- Access to the Innes Review electronic archives via Edinburgh University Press
- Two issues of the SCHA Newsletter annually - the newsletter contains current information about the society, reports of seminars and meetings, notices and information about new publications
- Evening Seminar series – evening seminars are held regularly in Edinburgh and Glasgow with invited scholars covering a wide variety of topics
- Support for young scholars - membership of the Association supports young scholars through the Bernard Aspinwall Postgraduate Essay Prize
- Discounts:
 - Attendance at the Annual Conference
 - Association publications
 - 20% to Association members on all EUP books and 10% on journal subscriptions
